GREAT VIEWING

The Balsa organization and the MOOT COURT BOARD encourage everyone to attend the Frederick Douglas Competition.

The Competition is an annual inter-law school appellate moot court competition sponsored this year by the National Black American Law Students Association and the National Bar Association to develop the art of brief writing and oral advocacy. Named in honor of Frederick Douglass, noted black abolitionist and orator, it remains the only national competition which focuses upon contemporary legal issues affecting people of color. This year's case, Rogers v Lodge, is an actual case which was scheduled for argument before the US Supreme Court during the Oct. Term of '81. Preliminary rounds begin at 10am Sat. Feb. 13th at the County-City Building, and final rounds at 4:00pm in the Court of Appeals. Take a break from the books and watch the Competition.
